Smithfield Foods Supports Coloradans in Need with 40,000 Pound Protein Donation to Food Bank of the Rockies

DENVER, March 11, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- One in 10 Coloradans don't know where their next meal will come from. Recognizing this, Smithfield Foods, Inc. and King Soopers partnered to donate more than 40,000 pounds of protein to Food Bank of the Rockies. The tractor-trailer load of nutritious, center-of-the-plate protein is enough to feed 160,000 individuals as Smithfield continues its 2020 Helping Hungry Homes® tour.

"At Smithfield Foods, we are committed to serving communities in need to ensure every family has access to a healthy, nutritious meal," said Jonathan Toms, charitable initiatives manager for Smithfield Foods. "We are proud to partner with organizations such as Food Bank of the Rockies and King Soopers that share the mission of helping Americans become more food secure, especially right here in Colorado."

Helping Hungry Homes® is Smithfield's signature hunger-relief initiative focused on alleviating hunger and helping Americans become more food secure. Since the inception of the program, Smithfield has donated over 145 million servings of nutritious, high-quality protein to food banks, school nutrition programs, disaster relief efforts and community outreach programs across all 50 states.

"We are thrilled to partner with Smithfield, a company that has continuously provided support to communities across the country," said Erin Pulling, President & CEO of Food Bank of the Rockies. "Thousands of men, women and children look to Food Bank of the Rockies to provide food for their next meal and donations like this help make nourishing our community possible."

Smithfield and King Soopers presented the donation to Food Bank of the Rockies during an event in Denver this morning. Over the course of the year, Smithfield Foods will provide dozens of additional donations to communities across the country.

"Through our combined efforts with Smithfield, we will continue to fight hunger and address the critical need to feed America's families," said Jessica Trowbridge, Manager of Corporate Affairs for King Soopers. "We are especially thankful for the opportunity to team up with these likeminded organizations to work toward our common goal."
