Pure Farmland™ Presents $20,000 To Norris Square Neighborhood Project As Part Of Its Pure Growth Project

Grant to Help Philadelphia Urban Garden Thrive and Increase Community Access to Locally Grown Produce

SMITHFIELD, Va., Oct. 20, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Earlier today, Pure Farmland™ recognized Norris Square Neighborhood Project in Philadelphia, Pa. and its positive impact in the community through a check donation of $20,000. The endowment is part of the 2020 Pure Growth Project, an initiative launched by Pure Farmland earlier this year to ensure community gardens and farms continue to thrive, and to help increase the availability of fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables nationwide. Norris Square Neighborhood Project was selected as a 2020 grant recipient to support its mission in uniting and inspiring the local community through empowering programs in education, youth development, food and nutrition programming, and neighborhood support services.

After receiving 167 applications from community gardens and farms across 31 states, 50 organizations were carefully selected to receive grants ranging from $1,000 to $20,000, providing a total of $100,000 in financial support to nurture these unique neighborhood spaces.

Pure Farmland joined Norris Square Neighborhood Project to celebrate the urban garden's achievements and highlight the amazing impact their hard work has on the neighborhood. The event included a check presentation for $20,000 in support of the construction of new raised beds to increase the number of available plots for community gardeners. In an especially difficult time for families facing food insecurity, Norris Square Neighborhood Project is expanding its farming area to accommodate more growers to respond to this need. The local Philadelphia garden is applauded for its commitment in addressing the needs of the community as they emerge, especially for their efforts in helping ensure its neighbors remain as healthy as possible during the current public health and economic crisis.

"Norris Square Neighborhood Project is excited to partner with Pure Farmland, as we work to ensure that more people in the community can grow foods that make them feel good - nutritious, fresh fruits and vegetables, including many varieties traditional to Puerto Rican foodways, as our neighborhood is rooted in this heritage," said Teresa Elliott, executive director for Norris Square Neighborhood Project. "We look forward to bringing together young and old to garden together, helping to keep our neighborhood strong."

"Pure Farmland is humbled to bring this opportunity to Norris Square Neighborhood Project, so they can continue to be a pillar of inspiration and strength to their community," said Erin Thacker, MA, RDN, brand manager for Pure Farmland. "Seeing the impact the grant will make for local residents and feeling the excitement around the new developments only builds our passion to give back to deserving organizations like this around the country through the Pure Growth Project."

About Norris Square Neighborhood Project

Norris Square Neighborhood Project (NSNP) is a unique organization that offers youth and community residents a safe space to explore cultural and social-justice issues, create art, and develop sustainable-agriculture skills. For over 45 years, youth have developed leadership skills, built relationships with each other and staff, learned about urban agriculture, and created performing and visual art. Annually, NSNP serves up to 100 high-school-aged youth through after-school and summer programs. NSNP also serves community members through innovative programming and its six Puerto Rican/Latinx culturally-themed garden and agricultural spaces.
